

Emergency Supplies and Information

This site is used to provide Bank of America employees with resource information immediately following business-impacting events, such as a hurricane, an earthquake or a pandemic situation.

Following such an event, employees may be directed to this site by their line of business to obtain resource information, such as distribution locations for ice, water and/or gasoline.

At this time, there are no business-impacting events requiring resource information.